Dear Parent/Carer,

We have been advised by West Midlands Police that groups of students from a number of schools in the area are planning to attend a large water fight, after school. Worryingly, the police have been informed that some students may be planning to use acid in place of water. Though this cannot be confirmed it is important that students return home immediately after school and do not congregate in groups or where these water fights might take place.

As a prevention measure, West Midlands Police have a dispersal order in place, and officers will be actively engaging groups of students who are seen congregating in the local areas.

We work closely with our safer schools' police officers to ensure that families are regularly updated on any local issues. As part of ensuring that our students can arrive and leave school safely, we advise all families to ensure that their child returns straight home at the end of the school day. It is vital that students do not congregate in groups or loiter when travelling to and from school.

Many thanks for your continuing support.

Regards,

Mr D Richards,
Principal
